Flower Power

If you took a stroll in the Enclave in late March or April, you may have seen one of the first forest flowers blooming. This beautiful plant is a Bloodroot.

"It can grow in full sun, but is more often found in semi-shaded, light-wooded areas with moist, acidic soil."

Bloodroot was a traditional medicine used by many American Indian tribes to treat fever and rheumatism. Other traditional uses were for the treatment of ulcers, ringworm, and skin infections. It was, and still is, used to produce natural red, orange, and pink dyes."

These wildflowers are called Bluets, Quaker Ladies or Innocence.

Deerwood Park is a happy playground for owners and their children and grandchildren.

Spring Touch-Ups

April 9th showers saw the spread of mulch in our common areas.

Kind Words are Nice to Hear

“We looked at a lot of places before we purchased in Deerwood Park. It was the beauty of the community and clear pride of ownership that sold us. The benches, the upkeep of common areas, the fountains - all of those things made an impact. And why we love it still! It’s so awesome to see the continued upkeep/updates happening!”

More Spring Touch-Ups

New lights on the Horse Trail bridge were donated and installed by the McCandless family. Thank you Cindy & Mike!

Benches and Birdhouses continue to be spruced up around the development.

Mark and Sheila stated, "We have always said we're coming to the NC mountains. After 25 years of mountain vacations, our dream has come true.

As of November 2023, we purchased our cabin in Deerwood Park! We now anticipate a permanent move within two years. The Deerwood Park beauty and terrain are spectacular; it made our purchase an easier decision!"

Take a Stroll To a Quiet Nature Haven

Hidden Pond is flanked by native rhododendron on one side and a hill of hay scented ferns on the other side. There is an Alleghany abundance of flora.
